Mclvor News (Whroo correspondent report)

8 March, 1861

On Wednesday last a magisterial inquiry was held on the body of William Chamberlain who was unfortunately killed on the afternoon of Tuesday, by the falling of a drive in which he was working in Scotchman's Gully.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.

The deceased boy was the eldest of a large family, and the main support of his mother.

William's name has not been included on the plaque in Whroo Cemetery but it is more than probable that he is buried there.
